Clàudia Calero

JUNIOR FULLSTACK DEVELOPER

 I am a Junior FullStack Developer with a passion for designing and creating web applications using the Scrum framework with clean code practices. My experience includes completing a 850-hour FullStack Bootcamp with Factory F5, where I gained knowledge in different technologies and languages for both backend and frontend development. Additionally, I recently completed an intensive Java Backend Bootcamp with Ironhack, which allowed me to deepen and polish my backend skills.

In my time at Factory F5, I was given the opportunity to participate in my first Hackathon, where I worked with a team from different schools in Spain and Colombia to create a Marketplace in just three days. This experience allowed me to apply my knowledge of Scrum methodologies and learn how to collaborate effectively with a team to achieve a common goal.

Before transitioning into programming, I had an academic background in pattern making, clothing, and fashion. I believe my artistic background provides me with a unique perspective when it comes to designing and creating visually appealing applications. In my free time, I enjoy exploring my artistic side through self-portraits and digital retouching.

My objective is to continue my growth and development as a programmer within a company that values and supports ongoing learning and encourages personal and professional growth. I am excited about the prospect of being part of a dynamic team where I can utilize my technical skills and creative vision to contribute to the success of the company.

Sincerely
